I'll take your entire stock!! very fun game, see lots of potential in it to grow further. Interesting theme, but the game really didn't work for me. I'm a little surprised by the overwhelming positive reviews, even by people that have put a lot of time into it and wonder how many others they've played. It is very inexpensive and will give you some challenge, but I'm not sure it's the type of challenge I want from a TD. I don't want to grind just to upgrade heroes, I want to be challenged to find that right mix of towers to get past a level. The difficulty ramps up a lot by the mid-game but mostly due to overpowered creeps and gimmicks.

Contrast this to Last Hope or Kingdom Rush, which also have you grind a bit for heroes but not as badly and are for me the more interesting games with more varied levels and goals. I'm not even going to mention Defense Grid. Oops.

It won't cost you much to try if you love TD games, and the grind will give you many hours of cheap entertainment (and cheap frustration), but you've probably played more interesting ones.. Highly recommend this game! It's colorful, fun, challenging but relaxing. The soundtrack is whimsical as well.. build the full game, her indoors loves it and would buy all day

. Pixel Survivors is a simple & mostly a short strategy\simulation-game.

Dont expect to much from the game and you will have a great game for now and then.

Pro:

- pixel graphics
- short strategy\simulation game
- villager turns into zombies when they die
- wont play it longer as like a hour, great diversion
- steamcards and achievements

Con:

- stupid AI is still stupid :D
- pixel graphics (some wouldnd like it)
- wont play it longer as like a hour, miss some longtime motivation
- if you see a zombie the game is nearly game over if you have no recources

Rate: 8\10

What i miss in the game:

- would like to see some more animals like deers or somthing
- no tree spawn without a building
- more ways to protect against zombies

Dont expect a long on going Strategy-Game, for that its just to simple if you mastered it once(its first really hard even on easy). But its a great game if you just want to look at a village and see how its growing as you wish.

I played since the Beta about 20 hours. The progress of the game headed forward and its now beautiful and mostly a stable game. Since its release you cant build everthing from the start you have to research new building and a more efficence way for you villager to gather recources. But so the game got some more deeper interaction and a long time motivation.

This game simply was not fun for me. It failed to use VR in any interesting way other than being located in the environment. Its simply a point and click adventure based off where your headset is looking. No motion controls used, seated experience. I payed $6 for this on sale and still feel it was a bad choice. Played for about an hour but I doubt anything change moving forward as the hour was all the same actions in different environments.. In the midst of thousands of titles released onto steam on a daily basis, one shines above all others today. Was it fate that this game be released? It most certainly was. With the resounding success of Jumpball, Andre Bertaglia's first smash hit, there was no question that the sequel was coming. I, as a fan, was nervous that it would not live up to the standards of the first game. However, I was pleasantly surprised that this game has surpassed my every expectation of what a game should be! The character development, the story, the punishment and reward system, and the music and graphics that appropriately call back to the days when the only jumping balls we were getting were in "Jumpball". Everything about this game just adds up to be the PERFECT package of challenge, reward, and just good quality fun! If you don't already own this game, BUY IT NOW! You won't regret it. Thank you Andre for another incredible gaming masterpiece. I CAN'T WAIT FOR JUMPBALL 3!!!. Played the♥♥♥♥♥outa this. I wish there was some more content its a super fun game.. Charmingly written adventure RPG with more branching paths than you can shake an enchanted stick at.. The first 20 minutes is a cinematic cutscene and then it puts you into a 2d click to move puzzle with no instructions at all.
